

Sunshine

She finally found a resting place, she has to know

Wanting for nothing she held her breath and let it go
Dancing wild you traced the sky with you finger
The cold divide between loss and life always lingers

She had to know as I held her hand it was time go, away
Climbing wild you touched the sky lost in daydream
"There is no why," I replied, as you cried... no rhyme no reason

Laughing wild you fed the birds with bread you'd bring them
The warm sunshine you laced with smiles doesn't linger.

Though just a child she fell with grace, I hope she knows her sun shine's on...

EZRYN ZYZYX